International Day of Prayer – Today

2016 Theme: Sorrow and Triumph

In the traditional church calendar, "All Saints Day" and "All Souls Day" stand out in the month of November, set apart to remember the saints of the church and the souls of those who departed this world. It is fitting, then, that the modern church has set apart the month of November to remember and pray for the persecuted church, through the International Day of Prayer for the Persecuted Church (IDOP). There are many countries in the world today where Christians are martyred for their faith. Believers in Afghanistan are facing death threats; Christians in Uzbekistan, Nigeria and many other countries face violence, imprisonment and even death.

Please Pray For the Persecuted Church. To learn how to pray, visit websites like: www.idop.org or www.persecution.com

We were never meant to take this journey of faith alone or in secret. God has entrusted us with the great and mighty gift of the gospel, something too precious and life-giving to keep to ourselves. You will encourage you to guard what God has entrusted to you, further His kingdom by sharing Christ with others, and pour into future generations just as Paul mentored Timothy. Because in this journey of joy & hardship, we need each other to stay the course & live lives of faithfulness.

International Day of Prayer for the Persecuted Church Prayer Focus:

China: Joy in Prison

As the date of her long-anticipated release from prison neared, Cheng Jie wondered whether her young sons would even remember her. She'd spent the last two years at a labor camp in China, and she hadn't seen her sons at all during her imprisonment. Cheng Jie — a young mother, a pastor's wife, and a former kindergarten director — never anticipated her 2014 arrest. It was her role as the director of the Hualin Foreign Language Experimental Kindergarten that took her to prison for two years. Chinese authorities charged the school and its administration of "illegal business operations," due to the use of what the authorities called religious curriculum. The school was closed, and four people associated with it, including Cheng Jie, were arrested. Her husband was allowed to visit once a month, but the children, who were 1- and 3-years-old when she was arrested, were not allowed to come. During their visits, the husband and wife encouraged one another, but the guards refused to allow him to give Cheng a Bible. But God provided her with a copy of His Word another way. Another prisoner had one, and she traded it to Cheng Jie for some other items. Despite the long work hours, Cheng read the Bible faithfully every night and found encouragement in God's Word. She also taught her cellmates songs, hymns, and Bible stories. In February 2016, Cheng Jie's sentence was complete, and she was released. It took a while for her now 3 and 5 year old sons to warm up to her, but the family is grateful to be reunited. Though it was hard on Du Hongbo to care for the boys on his own, he said God gave him good health during that time so he could take care of the children. Today, the family faces an uncertain future. They don't know what life will hold for them. Cheng Jie's prison record is a black mark against the family. It will be difficult to find work and her sons may not be allowed to enter school. Though they were reluctant to leave behind their church family, Du Hongbo decided, "The church belongs to God." They are preparing to relocate.
